

PLASTIC BAG? NOT A GREAT DISH FOR A FISH

Every year thousands of birds, seals, fish and other wildlife are impacted as a result of plastic litter in the Thames.

Plastic products don't disappear, they break up into small pieces, easily edible by wildlife. In a study, up to 75% of some types of fish sampled in the Thames had plastic fibres in their guts. All these plastics – bottles, wrappers, packets and other products belonged to someone once.

So we're asking everyone to do the right thing and bin their rubbish so birds, seals, fish, wildlife and people can enjoy a Cleaner Thames.

Do the Right Thing!
Bin it, for a
Cleaner Thames
